

Bahrain Jewellery Arabia 2004

Antiquorum was honored to be invited by Sheik Mohammed Bin Abdullah Khalifa to attend the Bahrain Jewellery Arabia 2004 show in October. The exhibition proved to be a huge success, with almost 30,000 visitors and much interest from the international press.

On this occasion, Antiquorum showed a selection of several exceptional horological masterpieces.

Special interest was naturally attracted by the display of the Vacheron Constantin grand complication pocket watch that once belonged to King Fouad I of Egypt. This was the first international preview of this important watch, which is one of the highlights of the upcoming thematic auction “The Quarter Millennium of Vacheron Constantin”, to be held later this year.

A collection of beautiful enameled watches and exquisite singing bird boxes with accompanying video displays animated the Antiquorum area and incited practically all visitors to stop and enjoy the stand.

This important show reinforced Antiquorum’s presence in the Middle East.

Oswaldo Patrizzi showing the King Fouad I pocket watches to the Prime Minister of Bahrain and his entourage.

Oswaldo and Kathryn Patrizzi, Sheik Mohammed bin Abdullah Khalifa and Hilal Baskal, Turkish Ambassador to Bahrain.

Oswaldo Patrizzi and Dominique Bernaz showing the watches to the Minister of Information.